

"LEADERSHIP '88 will be the perfect place where leaders from all spectrums will come together. New friendships and new working relationships will be forged and solidified to serve the kingdom of God."

Glandion Carney
Chairman, LEADERSHIP '88

"Ministry in America is becoming increasingly urban and multi-cultural. There is a transition in leadership in the evangelical world and LEADERSHIP '88 will be a significant milestone. This is an opportunity to bring leaders from all areas of the church together."

Leighton Ford
Chairman, Lausanne Committee for World Evangelization

- Send me an application packet. I would like to be considered as a participant at LEADERSHIP '88.
- Put me on your newsletter mailing list. I would like to tell others about LEADERSHIP '88.
- Send me additional brochures about LEADERSHIP '88. I need to tell others about this event.
- Send me additional information about the Lausanne Committee for World Evangelization.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Telephone (____) _____ Age _____

Please print or type.

Mail this coupon to:
LEADERSHIP '88
P.O. Box 2620
Pasadena, CA 91102
(818) 577-7502

Leadership '88

Lausanne Committee for World Evangelization

P.O. Box 2620, Pasadena, CA 91102
(818) 577-7502

Leadership '88

Lausanne Committee for World Evangelization

June 27 - July 1
Washington, D.C.

Lausanne Switzerland...1974...a significant gathering...

2,700 evangelical leaders gather from around the globe to consider the task of world evangelization. A covenant is drafted, perhaps the most influential statement on the mission of the church in modern history.

These participants represented over 150 nations with over half coming from the Third world. Overcoming diverse denominational backgrounds, they began to pray, study, plan and work together to evangelize the world. This cooperation launched a vision among all to see the fulfillment of the Great Commission.

Overwhelming approval by these leaders recommended the formation of a body to insure that this "spirit of cooperation" continue. Thus, the Lausanne Committee for World Evangelization was born.

Returning to their homelands, these leaders took the "spirit of Lausanne" with them. A growing movement of the Holy Spirit was clearly evident.

Many of the leaders representing the United States had begun their ministries in the immediate post-World War II era. By 1974, these organizations were growing and thriving in service to the Lord Jesus Christ. In recognition of Lausanne, these groups solidified a commitment amongst themselves.

LEADERSHIP '88 June 27 — July 1, 1988 Washington, D.C. Hilton

Today, this pioneering generation is reaching retirement age. The need confronting the evangelical church in America is a new generation, challenged with the vision of world evangelization.

An emerging generation of leaders must be challenged to work together in completing the Great Commission. The Lausanne Committee has initiated LEADERSHIP '88 to issue that challenge.

"As this century draws to a close, a new generation of leaders must be willing to step out boldly and chart a course for the future. The world will not wait. LEADERSHIP '88 will challenge these young leaders to take the saving gospel of Jesus Christ to every part of American society and to the ends of the earth."

Billy Graham

"If we are really serious about evangelizing the world, we must recognize evangelicals across the board. A major focus of LEADERSHIP '88 will be to help Christians in secular professions to see their part in the big picture."

Becky Pippert

theology, style and education.

LEADERSHIP '88 will encourage and equip these emerging Christian leaders to take aggressive action in completing the Great Commission in this generation.

In the "spirit of Lausanne," LEADERSHIP '88 will bring together over 2,000 emerging Christian leaders from across the United States. These leaders will represent a mixture of America, with a diversity of culture,

Participants at LEADERSHIP '88 will:

- Consider the future of the world and discuss how this will effect the work of God's Kingdom.
- Qualify the characteristics that leaders must possess.
- Interact to determine the strategies needed to evangelize the world in this generation.
- Reflect on the commitments necessary to understand the personal and corporate call of God in regards to world evangelization.

Take part in shaping the future of the body of Christ for tomorrow.

Attend LEADERSHIP '88